Summit County Resident Graduates from National Court Management Program

Daniel Horrigan among 42 court employees from around the state to receive special certification

COLUMBUS – Summit County Clerk of Courts Daniel Horrigan was among 42 Clerks, court administrators, probation supervisors, and program managers from courts throughout Ohio to graduate from the Court Management Program (CMP) of the Institute for Court Management, which is the educational arm of the National Center for State Courts (NCSC).

Horrigan is the Summit County Clerk of Courts.

This is the fourth class of Ohio students to graduate from the national program – the only program of its kind in the United States. The two-phase CMP is for mid to high level court managers interested in strengthening their management knowledge, skills and abilities. The program, which requires a three-year commitment, complements the training needs of courts implementing the National Association for Court Management’s core competencies. Completion provides graduates with a Certified Court Manager credential.

The 2010 Court Management Program graduating class represents court professionals from across Ohio.

Chief Justice Eric Brown offered his congratulations to the class. Administrative Director Steven C. Hollon addressed the graduates and their guests as well as presented certificates during the Oct. 29 graduation ceremony.

The Oct. 29 graduation ceremony came after a 2 ½-day concluding seminar hosted at the Ohio Judicial Center. Titled “High Performance Court Framework,” the seminar described how to assess organizational court performance. Many family members and judicial officers attended the program as guests.

During the program, participants were required to attend two modules of courses each year. The modules, which were each 2 ½ days long, covered topics ranging from managing court financial resources and fundamental issues of caseload management to managing human resources and managing technology projects and resources.

The NCSC, founded in 1971, is a non-profit organization dedicated to improving the administration of justice by providing leadership, research, technology, education, service and training to the state courts.
